DETAILED ACTION

This action is in reference to Applicant's amendment filed on 10/8/2008.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 17, 22, 26, 29, 31, and 34 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Buttner-Janz et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5401269) in view of Fuhrmann et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5002576).

Buttner-Janz et al. discloses an intervertebral disc implant having a base plate 1, a cover plate 2, and an intervertebral disk core 3. Translational and rotational movements are possible (Figures 1-2) and the cover plate and intervertebral disc have spherical partial surfaces with the same radii for articulation (Figures 1-2). The cover plate and base plate are made of metal. The edges of the cover plate and the base plate have a declination of the corners facing each other away from each other and the cover plate never touches the base plate (See below).

The base plate and cover plate can be implanted or fixed without cement by using teeth 5 (Column 2, lines 65-67).

Buttner-Janz et al. fails to disclose the base plate and cover plate having a ceramic coating of titanium-niobium-nitride. Fuhrmann et al. teaches an intervertebral disc having an upper base plate 3 and a lower base plate 4. The upper and lower base plates can be coated in a ceramic coating since such coatings are known to enhance ingrowth of body tissue (Column 3, Lines 15-20). It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to construct the device of Buttner-Janz et al. with the base plate and cover plates having a ceramic coating in view of Fuhrmann et al. in order to enhance body tissue ingrowth.

With regards to claim 22 and 26, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a titanium-niobium-nitride as the ceramic coating and to construct the cover plate or base plate from titanium, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

It is noted it is inherent that the device is used for treating a damaged intervertebral disk is considered to anticipate claims 29, 31, and 34.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
